CHAMPAGNE DRESSING BY DRESS IT UP OF BETHESDA, MD

Dress It Up is an entirely woman-owned and -operated salad dressing company based out of Bethesda, MD (118 miles from Grounds). Founded in 2012 by Sophia Maroon, the business was built out of her mother's olive oil dressing recipe that she's used ever since leaving for college. From humble beginnings delivering jars of dressing in recycled jars to neighbors, Dress It Up products have garnered prestigious honors in the food industry, including accolades from the Good Food Foundation and Specialty Food Association, all while maintaining an unwavering commitment to sustainability and social responsibility.

SALSA BAR BY SALSAS DON SEBASTIAN OF MIDLOTHIAN, VA

Salsas Don Sebastian was founded by America DeLoach in 2017 using her husband's family salsa recipe from Nayarit, Mexico. Since then, the business has grown to offer a variety of fresh-tasting and authentic products in various retail outlets and farm markets across central Virginia. Their small-batch manufacturing process and facility are both run entirely by Hispanic women. Outside of salsa, Salsas Don Sebastian also offers savory dips, chips and chimichurri.

GREEN BIBB LETTUCE BY FRESH2O GROWERS OF STEVENSBURG, VA

Fresh2o Growers, located only 55 miles from Grounds in Stevensburg, Virginia, has commercially grown hydroponic lettuce since 2014. In the years since, it has grown to become the largest certified organic hydroponic lettuce greenhouse in the eastern United States with over 8 million heads grown annually. Joe Van Wingerden and his son Ben brought over forty years of experience growing hydroponics (as well as installing over 4 million square feet of greenhouses) to start Fresh2o using Joe's own proprietary growing system and patented packaging.

GRITS BY DEEP ROOTS AT WOODSON'S MILL OF NELSON COUNTY, VA

Deep Roots Milling at Woodson's Mill was started in 2016 by Charlie Wade (a sixth-generation miller) in his Roanoke garage with only a small 8-inch stone mill and a homemade sifter. Since then, the business has grown to include a larger milling facility, a commercial sifter, and the historic Woodson's Mill in Nelson County, VA. Originally built in the 1790s, the mill is the last commercially-run water-powered mill in the state. Deep Roots currently mills their product on massive 48-inch stones that were installed in the 1840s.

FARM TO fork

TOMATOES BY YODERS' FARM OF CAMPBELL COUNTY, VA

Yoders' Farm in south central Virginia has been a family-owned and -operated farm since 1952 when Ernest and Lovina Yoder moved from the northern part of the state to outside Rustburg, VA. Originally just a dairy, the farm transitioned in the mid-1990s to include a hydroponic greenhouse facility. Nowadays, the cows are gone but tomatoes, strawberries, and other produce options have come to be mainstays at Yoders' alongside their farm store and agritourism activities including a corn maze in the autumn months.
